
What's Karma?

Posted by Admin - 2007/07/26 15:38

When you read a post in the forum, you'll notice in the upper right hand corner of the post "Karma" with a green thumbs up and red thumbs down.

It's basically a gesture to let someone know that you appreciate, or don't, the time they took to leave some quality information in that post.

They may have helped you with a problem, reminded you about an upcoming event, or shared some important information.

So, the next time you benefit from reading a post, don't forget to leave some Karma for the original poster!
